Making the Case for Non-Alc

Cathy Nash Holley • Flavor & The Menu

Kathy Casey • Food Studios-Liquid Kitchen

Maeve Webster • Menu Matters

This “Flavor Brain Trust” comes together to outline the big opportunities in non-alcoholic beverages & mocktails. Over the past decade, drink developers have put unprecedented efforts into cocktail creations, and it’s about time some of that attention to flavor balance and technique trickle over to the non-alc side of the menu. Retail brands are introducing consumers to a vast range of mature flavor profiles in non-alc beverages; from less-sweet switchels to kombuchas to drinking bitters. Thoughtfully executed non-alc beverages inspired by today’s leading cocktails: from basic enhancements like ice and glassware, to surprisingly delightful savory, smoky, even veg-centric flavor profiles. TASTING – Seating for 70

Katie Ayoub ● Flavor & The Menu

Juliet Greene ● California Walnut Board

Steve Sturm ● Firebird’s Wood Fired Grill

Jorge Cespedes

Jeremy Bringardner ● Mendocino Farms

Thanks to the red-hot veg-centric movement and a growing demand for wholesome meals, “plant-forward” has moved from a lesser-known phrase to a viable menu strategy. Follow a lively panel discussion that looks at both plant-forward menus in action and creative ideas on how to incorporate them onto menus in craveable ways. Attendees will also get to taste on-trend plant-forward dishes that showcase the exciting menu opportunities in this brave new world. TASTING – Seating for 70

(Salon 1/2/3)

Evolving Family Dining Dynamics

Melissa Wilson ● Technomic

Dave Henkes ● Technomic

Family meal occasions represent nearly one in four (23%) foodservice occasions. Moreover, parents dine out often; 71% patronize restaurants at least once a week. However, today’s families and the foodservice industry are changing in fundamental ways. In this session,
Technomic will share insights to help operators and suppliers understand and respond to the evolving needs and expectations toward family dining to capture a greater share of these occasions.

Reality Bites 2.0: Improving the Impact of Menu Labeling

Pam Smith • Shaping America's Plate

Over recent years, evolving health and wellness attitudes and generational appetites present great opportunities – and challenges – for the foodservice industry. With FDA menu labeling finally in place and aggressive public health policy and local mandates ever looming, it’s time for a candid and sobering look at business impact and implications. Trading behavior, change in frequency and the resulting effect on check and margin could impact purchase intent, brand loyalty and the bottom line faster than most can fathom. Learn the compelling market research and consumer insights on labeling calories, along with the progressive and protective strategies planned in play to dodge the bullet – and reduce risk — all while creating a profitable flavor-first experience. This session explores how to approach future construction of menu items from ideation and creation to implementation, and how to keep track of it all.

Where Do We Go from Here?
A Sneak Peek at the Future

Maeve Webster ● Menu Matters

From the increased role of produce and the introduction of lab-grown meats to instgrammability and the high-tech takeover, Millennial-driven trends have had a fundamental and sweeping impact on foodservice today. But where are these changes taking the industry, and what will the future of foodservice look like long-term? This general session will give you a sneak peek into the broader discussion featured in the longer breakout session into the opportunities, challenges, and potential future outcome of these significant and unavoidable trends. Forewarned is forearmed and understanding how these trends will both strengthen and challenge the foodservice industry's role in the everyday lives of future consumers will help manufacturers and operators better assess and prepare for the changes to come.

The Winds of Change: Embracing a Bold Vision for the Future of Culinary Education

Kevin Duffy • Johnson and Wales University Chef Instructor
T.J. Delle Donne • Johnson & Wales University, College of Culinary Arts

It is important to remember that shared thinking and inclusive action, both innovative as well as what is enabled by technology, is what will significantly affect both the present and the future of the foodservice industry. Farmers, suppliers, manufacturers, restaurateurs, retailers, and institutions of higher education all have an important role to play in maintaining and creating the future of our industry. This interactive session discusses why culinary education is being rethought and how higher education institutions are rededicating programs to speak to 21st century needs...and how can industry help form the learning of these generations and prepare them to fill the roles for which you hire them.
